

Tough Decisions About Marriage

1. Imagine that one day you and your fiancé go to premarital counseling. On the first night you both fill out a long survey about your relationship. The next week the counselor says, “Based on the answers you provided, there is an 80% chance that your marriage will end in divorce.” Do you still go through with the wedding? Why or why not?
2. In your opinion, what factors contribute to Americans having one of the highest divorce rates in the world?
3. It’s easy to say that you would file for divorce if your spouse were to abuse you, cheat on you or become addicted to drugs. However, most people who file for divorce report being continually unhappy in their marriage for a long period of time. How long would you be willing to stay in a marriage that left you feeling consistently unfulfilled and unloved?
